Dear Mr WILKINS,

Please find enclosed your document(s), which states one of the following:

NO TRACE	You do not have any convictions, cautions, final warnings or reprimands
NO LIVE TRACE	You have a criminal record, however this information does not appear on the certificate because it has been stepped down.*
FURTHER INFORMATION STEPPED DOWN	You have a criminal record, however only relevant criminal record information appears on the certificate because some convictions have been stepped down.*
SUMMARY OF CONVICTIONS	You have a criminal record and all your convictions are shown on your certificate because none of them is subject to step-down.

*Further details about the 'stepping down' of criminal record information from the certificate can be found on the ACRO website. It is your responsibility to declare conviction information in accordance with your visa application.

If your certificate contains an impending prosecution or 'under investigation', you are currently being investigated in relation to a criminal offence for which no outcome has yet been recorded. You should be aware that the protections afforded by the Human Rights Act 1998 may not apply in other countries. You are advised to research any likely implications of visiting a country where offences on the certificate(s) may place you at risk.

ACRO accepts no liability should the information contained therein be misused by any party, or the use of the certificate(s), or information contained therein, results in any adverse implications for the person named on the certificate(s).

Yours sincerely,

Superintendent James Fulton
Head of ACRO Criminal Records Office
